Wako History

Wako LLC – Built by Farmers, for Farmers

Founded in 1962 by Charles Bland in Wakita, Oklahoma, Wako began with one goal—solving the equipment challenges farmers faced. When essential parts were hard to find, Wako stepped up, designing durable, dependable tools built to match the dedication of the people who use them.

Since 1986, Wako’s headquarters, manufacturing, assembly, and retail operations have been based in Enid, Oklahoma. Today, Wako is the largest fertilizer knife manufacturer in the U.S., also producing tillage tools, custom sprayers, toolbars, and providing expert service.

In 1997, the Big Country Equipment Line was launched to meet the demands of larger horsepower tractors, further proving Wako is more than parts and repairs—we build the big equipment farmers rely on.

With deep Oklahoma roots and nationwide reach, Wako continues to innovate tomorrow’s equipment today—helping farmers feed the world.
